DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Cho et al. (6,979,038).

Regarding claim 1, Cho discloses a video monitor hinge assembly showing an engagement base (ceiling recess for mounting a console as described in col. 1, lines 13-16), a console which inherently includes a disc player and retained in the ceiling recess and has a first pivoting mechanism at the top edge of the console (66), a display panel (40) having a second pivoting mechanism at the back of the display panel (50), and an angle adjusting plate (36) having first and second pivoting blocks for receiving the first and second pivoting mechanism, respectively.

Regarding claim 2, the ceiling recess conforms to the shape of the console 14, which is a rectangular body.

Regarding claim 3, the console (14) inherently includes a disc retaining chamber and operation buttons in order to playback a video disc.

Regarding claim 4, see LCD panel 12.

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Rosen (6,124,902) shows a display panel recess.

Chou (6,917,516) shows a LCD monitor.
